Sophomores Will Register
Next Monday; Newcomers

Many Graduates Of County Schools To Enroll

Registration authorities today were anticipating one of the biggest enrollments in the history of the Santa Ana junior college. Applications for admission have been pouring into Dean McKee Fisk's office all summer, with more than 230 new freshmen now on the 1931-32 lists.

Seven hundred and eighty-four students attended the Don institution last year, with a regular enrollment of 640. Four hundred and twenty-six freshmen, 214 sophomores, 115 seniors, and 29 post-graduates made up Santa Ana's enrollment during the 1930-31 term.

County high schools are sending many students to Santa Ana college this year. Orange, Anaheim, Tustin, Garden Grove, and Huntington Beach all being represented by several of their 1931 graduates.

Sophomore registration will be held next Monday, September 14, to be followed by two days for the freshmen, Monday and Tuesday, September 15-16. The hours for enrollment have been set, the morning schedule to run from 8 a. m. to 11:30 (Cont. Page 4, Section One)

Bachelors Sport Glasses, Ties As Frosh Days Open

Distinguished by their flowing red ties and dark glasses, members of the Brotherhood of Bachelors are assisting the other service clubs of the college during Freshman Week and will start at once on the usual schedule of club activities for the year.

George Griffith, Associated Student president and former senior exalted Bachelor, is working with Tom Cone, grand exalted Bachelor, in the promotion of Frosh Week. Members of the club are serving on various committees and working in virtually every phase of the annual preliminary functions.

The Brotherhood of Bachelors is the oldest men's service club in the college, it having been organized in 1925 by a group of Dons wishing protection from the fairer sex. It was because of this wish that the club members adopted the rolling pin as its official insignia and wear red ties and dark glasses on every other Tuesday, which is Bachelor Sabbath. From 8 to 12 a. m., no conversation is held with any woman, except on urgent business and in the presence of a second brother. Severe penalties are pronounced for the breaking of this rule.

At a meeting of the brotherhood Tuesday night in Anaheim at the home of Warren Schutz, sophomore president last semester, definite plans were made for a rush party to be held in the near future. A large number of men will be guests and the prospective members will be selected from this group. The customary six week period will then be held, terminated by "Hell Week" and the final initiation. During this pledge- (Cont. Page 4, Section One)

Sixteenth Birthday Celebrated By Santa Ana Jaycee

With the opening of doors today, Santa Ana junior college celebrates its sixteenth birthday.

Organized in 1915 with an enrollment of 25, the registration figures have grown steadily. Last year there were 640 regular students attending the institution, with a total enrollment of 784.

Along with the increasing number of students has come an increase in courses offered. At the present time Santa Ana is prepared to offer courses in every field of Liberal Arts work. A complete two-year course in Commerce is given. Engineering and Mechanic Arts are offered, and thorough training in music, fine arts, and secretarial work is available.

WOMEN'S DEAN BACK IN S. A.

Mrs. Eleanor H. Northcross, dean of women at Santa Ana junior college, and Agnes Todd Miller, English instructor and student social adviser, arrive here tomorrow from Europe, where they have enjoyed a sight-seeing tour this summer.

Accompanied by T. H. Glenn, head of the college English department, and Robert Northcross, the dean's son, Mrs. Northcross and Miss Miller left immediately upon the dismissal of classes here in June. Mr. Glenn, on a leave of absence here, will study in Europe during the 1931-32 college term. Mrs. Northcross will be in the company of the junior college faculty members when they return tomorrow.

While in Europe Mrs. Northcross and party visited France, Italy, Germany, England, and other points of interest. Miss Miller planned to enroll for summer study at Oxford University, England.

Price Of College Tickets Arranged

Treasurer Dante Siracusa Begins Drive Soon

With one aim, to place an Associated Student ticket in the reach of all, the Executive Board this year has reduced the price of the college membership card to $7.00, $1.50 cheaper than last season's ticket.

The student, upon purchasing a ticket, becomes a member of the Associated Students and is extended all privileges of this association. Admission to all football, basketball, track, swimming, baseball, wrestling, and tennis contests is given, the right to vote in all elections and to be affiliated with various campus clubs is extended, and a copy of El Don, college weekly, and Del Ano, college yearbook depicting the highlights of the year, are offered without additional charge.

The ticket of the Associated Students entitles the holder to free admission to all social functions sponsored by the Associated Students. Many dances are held throughout the year, and entertainments of every nature are placed on the college calendar.

Dante Siracusa, treasurer, has made arrangements to get the ticket sale under way within the next few days, it was learned this morning.

Students unable to purchase membership cards will be given an opportunity to come before the Executive (Cont. Page 3, Section One)

McKee Fisk Heads China Trip For Third Successive Summer

By Robert deupree

Bringing with them countless memories of invaluable hours spent among the quiet gardens, huge cities, deserts and quaint villages of the orient, Dean McKee Fisk, Elmer Kogler and Dick Evans returned recently from an extended tour of China, Japan, and Korea, to take up their duties at the Santa Ana junior college.

The tour is a yearly project sponsored by the Pacific Southwest Council of the Young Men's Christian Association and includes besides Kogler and Evans, George Warmer, former junior college graduate and student of Pomona, and John Sharp and Hugh Rossire, of the California Institute of Technology.

For the third time in as many years Dean Fisk was selected by the council to lead the tour because of his wide acquaintance with prominent educators and governmental officials on the other side of the Pacific. Dinners, teas, and public addresses, besides numerous less formal occasions were planned by the oriental representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association to entertain their American brothers who join with them yearly in the nation-wide "Bridge the Pacific" movement launched several seasons ago.

Leave In June
The group embarked several hours after commencement last June on the luxurious new Japanese motorship "Tatsuta Maru", at present the largest liner in service on the Pacific. Traveling third class, the party had an entire stateroom to itself, besides the dining salon, and lounge for its own private use. This concession was made it because of the fact that all other third class passengers were orientals.

After a stop of 12 hours in Honolulu, the group proceeded on to Yokohama, where it was met by members of the Y. M. C. A. and representatives of various universities in that city. In Tokio Tom Haruki, former Occidental student, and John Weigh and Robert Lee, of the University of Shanghai, joined the travelers.

On the evening of July third the group left in company with a party of Japanese travelers for a trek up the sides of Nippon's sacred and most beautiful mount—Fuji. There is a beaten path up its steep slopes (Cont. Page 4, Section One)

Will Hold French Club Meet Oct. 8

Many Suggestions Offered For 1931-32 Program

Students taking French or those having a knowledge of the language will be interested to know that one of the most ambitious schedules of club meetings and activities in the history of L'Hotel de Rambouillet, advanced French club, is being prepared by Velma Bishop, president, and Lella Watson, club adviser, and instructor of French.

The first meeting of the year will be held Thursday, October 8, probably in the Y-Hut. Meetings will be held regularly each month, with occasional special functions. It is planned to have as many different types of meetings as possible, and among (Cont. Page 3, Section One)

Collegians Asked To Press Meeting

Journalistic Group Plans For Banner Year

Calling a meeting for the evening of September 24, Glover Hendrickson, newly-elected president of the Press club, today stated that he should like to have every student of the college who is interested along journalistic lines to attend in order that club officers, elected last June, may outline their plans for the coming year.

Governed by a constitution which contains non-restrictive membership clause, the Press club is open to all students who desire to learn something of newspaper work as well as to partake in the many social events which are staged throughout the (Cont. Page 4, Section Two)

New Associated Student Head Is Twenty-second Don Leader

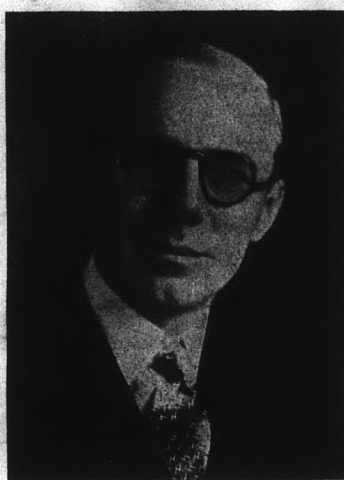

Installed as the twenty-second president of the Associated Students, George Griffith now heads the largest organization in the history of the Santa Ana junior college.

Growing by leaps and bounds, the college enrollment has experienced an increase with the inauguration of each of the past 21 presidents. In 1921, when the college was but five years old, two prominent students, Malcolm Finley and Della Franzen, drew up a constitution and a student organization was formed. This constitution is still in effect.

Robert Gerwing, now a radio dealer in Santa Ana, was the first student president; Della Franzen, the first vice-president; and Malcolm Finley, the first secretary. This staff held office for a whole year.

Accept New Plan
Approving the plan of electing officers each semester, the students selected Robert Green as their first 1922 president. Tessie Childers was chosen vice-president. Second semester officers were Schuyler Bigelow, (Cont. Page 4, Section One)

McKee Fisk, dean of the college, who will serve as Executive Board adviser, filling the position held for the past several years by J. Russell Bruff, head of the college science department.

RECEPTION IS FACULTY PLAN

Invitations to the Santa Ana junior college's faculty reception, to be held in the Ebell clubhouse one week from Friday night, will be presented freshmen during next week's registration, L. L. Beeman, Frosh Week chairman, announced today.

Although the affair was designed originally to bring the incoming students in close touch with faculty members, sophomores of the college are cordially invited to attend, according to Beeman.

The reception this year again will be in charge of Agnes Todd Miller, instructor of English and student social adviser. The 1930 affair was held in the college "Y" hut, but it was found that such accommodations did not afford ample room. The Ebell clubhouse, the scene of the W. A. A. dance and the college's annual banquet last semester, is located at 625 French Street, Santa Ana.

Beach Discussion Held By Y. W. C. A.

Semester Plans Formed At Beach Saturday

Cabinet members of the Young Women's Christian Association combined business with pleasure Saturday when they met at the Laguna Beach summer cottage of Lucile Reich to discuss plans for the coming year and to complete arrangements for the part the "Y" will play during Freshmen Week.

Elizabeth Riniker, president, was in charge of the business meeting, which started at 10:30 a. m. Committee chairmen presented reports and a tentative schedule of meetings for the year was adopted. These meetings will all be planned to conform to a certain theme and prominent persons will be on the speaking program.

Those who were present at the meeting and the positions they hold on the new "Y" cabinet included Elizabeth Riniker, president; Elizabeth Skiles, vice-president; Dulcie Green, secretary; Lucile Reich, treasurer; Velma Bishop, program chairman, Jane Cunningham, chairman on international relations; Blanche Potter, chairman on house and grounds; Hazel Hushman, student representative; Goldie Peale, publicity chairman; Lois Read and Leona Stine, committee on sale of second hand books and Mrs. Jennie L. Tessmann and Miss Zena Leck, faculty advisers.

Various Service Clubs In Charge Of Opening

Expecting one of the largest groups of freshmen in the history of the college to be on hand to enjoy a schedule of events designed after weeks of planning, L. L. Beeman, head of the social science department and chairman of Freshman Week, today released a program of entertainment which will extend over a period of three days, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Introduction of faculty members will take place in assembly this morning, at which time D. K. Hammond, president of the junior college, will give an address of welcome. Short talks by McKee Fisk, dean; Eleanor Northcross, dean of women; and alumni addresses by Frances Larrabee and George Warmer will be featured. Following the assembly, a lunch free to all newcomers, will be served in the college cafeteria, with Hazel Hushman, president of the Associated Women Students, and Esther Schwaiger of the faculty in charge.

Required of all students before they can be classified or registered, an aptitude examination will be held in the afternoon at 1 p. m. Between (Cont. Page 4, Section Two)

Series Of Dinner Meetings Enjoyed By College Lions

Preserving the friendly cooperation instilled by members last semester, Junior Lions of the college held a series of dinner meetings at Ketter's cafe this summer.

With President Jim Thompson presiding at the majority of gatherings, plans for the new semester were discussed and arrangements for pledging new students were outlined in tentative form. While on an eastern visit during June and July, Thompson turned over his duties to Bert Wilkins, vice-president and prominent member of Coach Bill Cook's football squad.

Other officers continuing their duties through the summer period were Charles Greenleaf, secretary; Bert Winslow, treasurer; Leslie McDonald, lion tamer; Don Harrison, tail twister; and Richard Robbins and Ray Glesner, directors.

Membership in the Junior Lions is limited to 25, and pledges are chosen from those who have the spirit of the college. The club's pledgship extends over a period of four weeks, and at the end of this time, if the pledge possesses the qualities which measure up to the Junior Lion standard, he becomes a permanent member of the organization, with the right to vote until he becomes 21, at which time he is classified as an associate member.

Is Education a Menace?

Is the ominous hand of too much "higher education" casting a shadow over the world? Unbelievable as it seems, Professor Ernest Barker in a recent address to the Cambridge Summer school gave an unequivocal affirmative answer to the question. He was not jesting when he stated that a condition was arising in numerous countries of the globe, where sociologists and others were viewing with alarm the potential spread of the average education of those who will soon take over the reigns of world affairs.

Professor Barker said: "If you give university education too great a percentage, you will get two results: (1) You congest the universities and make their teaching mechanical; and (2) You may produce an unemployed, or quite inadequately employed, intellectual proletariat, which is the mother of revolutionary movements, political and economic."

It would seem to the reader that Professor Barker is almost as cruel as a critic of the positive effect of education as Oscar Wilde was some 30 years ago of its negative effect. In "The Importance of Being Earnest"—just now being revived so brilliantly in London, Wilde remarked that while "the whole theory of modern education is radically unsound, fortunately in England at any rate, education produces no effect whatsoever."

There is ample room to disagree with both. It is not impossible to believe that some ideas put forth and brought out for the first time in what is called "higher education" are synonyms with the theories that bring about revolution. Why not, then, curtail the opportunities for learning to such circumscribed limits that the nation would be secured for all time from the slightest murmur of dissent from the status quo? It is possible, however, that a freedom from revolution, which can be maintained only by restricting higher education, is not a particularly desirable condition.

Others do not agree with Professor Barker. Students of history will tell us that the world's greatest revolts and revolutions have not been caused by over-education of many, but by economic and political discontent which arises from a lack of education. The growth of higher learning does not necessarily mean higher unemployment. The advocates of Professor Barker's belief are overlooking the important fact that the "higher education" includes also the knowledge of the theories of social adjustment to such a condition, and as man continues to be replaced by the machine-indirectly through higher learning—so also does he continue to learn the process of adjusting the human race to new conditions.

To accomplish the desired purpose, education must strike and preserve a proper balance between the practical or vocational and the classical or aesthetic. Let it be recognized that an education which imparts an acquaintance with the refinements of living and implants a desire to enjoy them, while at the same time perhaps enfeebling rather than strengthening the equipment for their acquisition, is an education of dubious social value to the modern world.

Let it not be forgotten that earning a living is only one channel through which a successful education expresses itself to the world. There must be education for leisure just as well as education for labor and learning. It can be readily seen then that it is the leisure time created by the machine replacement process without the education and knowledge of adjustment, which would be in the words of Professor Barker, "the mother of revolutionary movements." Social education alone can make leisure time a social asset.

EL DON TALKIES

Why did you select Santa Ana junior college as one of your institutions for higher learning?
Aileen Adams: Santa Ana junior college was recommended highly to me by my sister, Margery.

OVER THE EDITOR'S DESK

BY PAUL WRIGHT

SANTA ANA COLLEGE today opens widely its doors to all incoming freshmen. Designed to introduce new members to the kind of life which they will experience here, Freshman Days, September 9, 10, and 11, are three of the busiest and most enjoyable periods of the college term. It is during this time that many friendships are formed, and after all, nothing can substitute for a true friend.

HIGHLY WELCOMED after a nine months' leave of absence, Old Man Football is with us again, and now, college sport scribes throughout the Southern California junior college conference will begin raving about winning the 1931 grid championship. We of the El Don staff have decided to scalp our sports editor should he say Santa Ana will win the pennant. Only the attitude taken by both the players and the students over a period of several weeks will determine the Don chances.

THEY SAY THAT a true university is a collection of books, but that is only part of it. Taking Harvard as an example, we find that another part consists of 8,969 lockers for athletes, nine football gridirons, 91 acres of sports fields, 92 tennis courts, 20 squash courts, two running tracks, two soccer fields, two lacrosse fields, five basketball courts, two wrestling, two boxing, and two fencing rooms, 14 handball courts, and two boat houses.

ONE OF THE hardest problems before a young writer is distinguishing between a little bit of something and a whole lot of nothing. Journalism teaches the student to weigh news value and to place on paper those facts which he has gathered. It is a subject which should secure the attention of every college student, inasmuch as the course offers a training that will prove valuable in any line of work, present or future. When pondering over your list of electives, consider journalism!

CONTRIBUTIONS to El Don will be accepted from any college student provided the subject matter is worthwhile. If there is a news item which you should like to have published, do not wait until a reporter discovers it. Visit the El Don office.

ANOTHER INTERESTING talk is in store for those club members who persuade Dean McKee Fisk to tell about his trip to China this summer. He has many interesting pictures, too. Elmer Kogler and Richard Evans, two students here, were among those who accompanied Fisk, as was George Warner, former president of the Associated Students.

IF THERE IS anything you wish to know, freshmen, speak up! Unusual but true, the sophomores were freshmen once, and they can help you.

BECOME ACQUAINTED with the faculty and avoid embarrassment! I've been told that several months ago one of Santa Ana College's most popular Dons, serving at one of the gates on Poly field, demanded a ticket from Coach "Tex" Oliver, director of athletics. Then, there are those who think Dean McKee Fisk is the name of a student here. It is McKee Fisk, dean of the college. On Friday, September 18, there will be a faculty reception to students. Everyone should avail himself of this opportunity to become acquainted with faculty members. SHAKE HANDS WITH THEM AND INDICATE THAT YOU PLAN TO BE AROUND FOR THE NEXT NINE MONTHS. In other words, let them know you are here.

STUDENTS ARE urged to keep in close touch with the Executive Board, for it is through this group that all Associated Student business is transacted.

ADIOS, until next week!

structors, together with the well-known Don hospitality, induced me to select this institution.

Jeanette Hickman: I selected Santa Ana junior college because, after one year at U. C. L. A., I believe a smaller school does more for the individual than a larger school could do, and gives one a chance to exercise his true initiative.

Miner Whitford: Being able to get the kind of subjects and courses in general which interest me here, I see no reason why I should go to any other school.

TWO TONS OF POTATO SALAD GONE HAYWIRE

Did'ja ever see exactly one ton of potato salad piled up in a stack? Believe it or not, 2,000 pounds plus of honest to goodness potato salad were bought and consumed by patrons of the Engineering club lunch stand last year. And they all lived to come back and buy some more.

In case you're slightly in the dark as to where this Engineering hang-out is located, it is right below the big football scoreboard at the north end of Poly field. Or in other words, the newly painted green building right south of the western tennis courts. That is where all the gravel is spread around, and where the benches and tables are located and also a mob of hungry students every noon.

As if 2 tons of home made potato salad weren't enough to brag about, this same hustling gang of high school and jaycee fellows sold over 500 pounds of baked beans, too. And as for sandwiches, ice cream, hot tamales, hot dogs, soda pop, milk, candy, pies, doughnuts and all the other things they dish over the counters, it is too much work to figure up statistics. But 50 million boys can't be wrong, as the old saying goes, and it's a fact that as many or more boys eat there than any other place.

Just what is this Engineering club, you ask? Well, it was started some 11 years ago as high school club interested in engineering. They were financially embarrassed, as most clubs are, so they hit upon the idea of selling lunches. A little stand was built by the bicycle racks but this was too little so it was moved to the football field and enlarged. Every year, new improvements are added until it now boasts various Frigidaire units, steam tables, modern vending equipment and more too.

Who gets the dough, some wise guy asks. Well most of it is put right back into the school. For one thing, that $750 loud speaking system in the auditorium, which also includes an amplifying system for the football field, was an absolute gift to the school by the club last year. Some gift, by the way. And then the club operates a radio transmitter and has been heard all over the United States. It built another candy stand over underneath the football bleachers and sells to the grid fans. It does this and that and those and for all these 11 years, the Engineers stand right at the top of the high school active organizations.

And to show their big heartedness, the high school members created a form of Associated Membership and a whole lot of our own Dons are active members, work in the stand and help the club function. Every Christmas vacation, if there is any money left after the many philanthropic enterprises, the boys take a trip into the mountains.

And now here is the reap point of this little story. A lot of jaycee male heroes, football and otherwise, make it a habit to eat at the stand. Knowing this, a ladies department will most likely be started, with nice little tables to sit at while you gulp a sandwich and lamp your favorite grid star. Moral: Boys, come out to be admired. Girls, come out to do the admiring. Lastly, whatever you come out for, you'll get the best food at the lowest possible prices and you have a nice place to sit down and eat. Bring your friends and don't crowd.

BOOK REVIEW

BY GLADYS LLOYD

"The Dream of Fair Women," by Henry Williamson, is a delightful novel resulting from the revision of the author's earlier work of the same title. While the essential plot remains the same, the characters developed in such a way that the book assumes an altogether different significance.

Returning from the war with nerves on edge and soul wounded, Willie Maddison finds it impossible to live with his father or to engage in steady employment. Seeking a place of solitude, he finds "Rats' Castle", an abandoned cottage on the Devon coast. Here his time is spent in thinking and writing about all the things that fire his imagination.

Evelyn Fairfax, a seductive woman, descends upon his solitude and lights a bomb under his feet. For through her, Maddison experiences a wonderful rapture which tends to make him believe that life really is worth while; and through her he is again dragged down to such depths of misery that only sensitive natures know.

Throughout the story the reader is presented with provocative glimpses of the lovely seashore and countryside for which England is so renowned. Every page is full of color and life. The author's imagination penetrates to the very heart of the subject, and the style of the prose is excellent. The author not only paints the idealistic poet and siren for us, but gives us very colorful impressions of the fisherman, shepherds, and innkeepers of the countryside.

Urges Student Cooperation During New Semester

Here we are at the beginning of a new year. We all have a fresh start to accomplish those things by which we wish to be remembered. Let us all keep a cheerful cooperative spirit and do our part as best we know how.

To you returning sophomores I am proud to see so many classmates. To you who are entering for the first time let me extend a sincere welcome from the Associated Students. May we all have a very successful year! Let us remember that by working together we shall be able to accomplish no end of good deeds.

At first it may all seem strange to you, but it will not be long before we are united and working together as a unit for the common benefit of all. Please keep in mind that no one can be criticized for being himself.—George S. Griffith, President, Associated Students.

Annual Reunion Of Old Students Held In J. C. Gymnasium

Thirty alumni members of the Santa Ana junior college chose Leonard Morris as their new president when they met during vacation in Andrews gymnasium for the annual reunion of the association.

Willard White, past president, will take care of the vice-presidential duties. June Arnold was elected secretary, and Kathryn Spicer, treasurer. D. K. Hammond, president of the junior college, was one of the faculty members present.

FRENCH CLUB

The suggested affairs are a typical French dinner dance, treasure hunt, breakfast, dinner at a French restaurant in Los Angeles or Laguna, French plays or opera and many others.

Oldest Club
The French organization is the oldest club on the campus, it having been formed by Miss Watson in 1917. At that time, the members took a great interest in corresponding and learning of war activities in France. The purpose of the club is to stimulate a greater interest in France and the literature and art of that country. Students taking advanced French or who have had French elsewhere are eligible for membership and after the first year classes become fairly proficient in conversation, additional members are selected from this group.

All club meetings are conducted in French to develop a greater proficiency in speech. French games and entertainment are usually included in the club meetings and many amusing incidents are enjoyed. Since Miss Watson has travelled extensively in France and the other countries of Europe, the club has the advantage of authentic and varied information on French customs and habits.

Serve Whole Year
The officers of the club serve the entire year from September to June. Velma Bishop, who was secretary last year, is president, Charles Stehly is vice-president, Mary Mateer, secretary; Harry Motley, treasurer; Marie Moog, critique and Miss Lella Watson, adviser. Members of last year who are expected to return to the club include Joy McPhee, Art Jacques, Bob Brown, Helen Campbell, Edith Bailey, Aileen Adams, Rosalind Schilling, Ruth Collins and Mary Isch.

Y. M. EXECUTIVE

Jac Crawford, president of the Young Men's Christian Association, who will serve during both the 1931-32 semesters.

Y. W. EXECUTIVE

Elizabeth Riniker, president of the Young Women's Christian Association, who will serve during both the 1931-32 semesters.

where some 70,000 orientals make a pilgrimage every year to the shrine on its snow covered summit, 13,000 feet above the lotus filled gardens of the city of Tokio. The trip was made on foot and at night to avoid the heat which sometimes reaches a high mark of 115 degrees during the day. But neither the excessive heat of the lower part of the mountain nor the huge banks of snow which envelop the summit twelve months of the year can turn back the devout people who line the trail leading to the top to do homage to their Gods.

From Tokio the party traveled across the quaint island of Kyushu by train and through the active crater of Mount Aso. This trip, seldom taken by white people, is off the beaten path of oriental tourist travel, and some of those who were their hosts in this part of Japan had never before seen a person of American birth.

From Shanghai, where it was guests of the university named after that city, the party had planned to go 1,000 miles by river boat and train into the interior to visit the industrial center of modern China, Hankow, but a few hours before departing time word was received at the American ministry that Chinese bandits had torn up the railroad tracks and destroyed all bridges on the way and that transportations was impossible.

president, and Jean Ross, vice-president.

Overton Luhr, now instructor of physics at the University of California, was named first 1924 president, with Leland Clark as vice-president. Charles Miller and William Anderson were the president and vice-president respectively for the second term. Miller is now an engineer for a Roswell, New Mexico mining company.

Abe Johnson and Virgil Duncan were the 1925 first semester officers, while Virgil Duncan, Johnson's vice-president, was named president for the second semester. John McCoy was the chosen vice-president.

Stanley Wheelock and Elizabeth Anderson succeeded to the two head offices the first semester of 1923, and were followed by Claude Hayward and Wilma Plavan. Hayward is now an engineer for the General Electric company of Schenectady, New York.

John McCoy, now city editor of the Orange News, was the head of the student government the first semester of 1926, with George Bromell as his assistant. Bromell succeeded to the presidency the second semester, and James Smith was named vice-president. Bromell is now head geologist of a Chile copper mine.

Heading the 1927 student organization was Hendrik Van Rensselaer, with Lawrence Minge as vice-president. James Smith, now with the Eastman Kodak company of Rochester, New York, was named second semester leader, and Lon McIntire assumed the vice-presidential duties.

Visit Tomb

At Nankin the group visited the tomb of Chang Shi Yek, founder and first president of the New Republic of China, and then journeyed on to Peking, where it was again guests of "Y" representatives and various colleges and missionary schools of the city.

One of the highlights of the trip was the short journey from Peking to the little village of Cho Fou, the birthplace of Confucius, where they were entertained in the family of seventy-fifth generation of descendants of the famous oriental philosopher. As no hotel accommodations could be secured at this place, the group was forced to sleep for one night on the narrow pews of the Methodist mission there.

Entertains

After a day spent at the world's oldest observatory, whose astronomical instruments no one has been able to work or explain for hundreds of years, and a short trip to the Great Wall, the party left Peking for Mukden, Manchuria, where it was again met and entertained by representatives of the Y. M. C. A.

From Mukden the group traveled through the Korean peninsula back across the Inland Sea to Tokio, where once more it was met and feted. On the return Mr. Fisk delivered an address before the Pan-Pacific club, gathering place of all the American students in that part of Japan.

Paper Will Accept Comment Upon Student Problems

Opening a channel through which any student of the college may express his opinion of current situations, El Don will run from time to time a column of student comment.

Contributions must carry the signature of the writer and should be in the hands of the staff not later than Tuesday morning of each week.

The arguments presented may or may not be in harmony with those of El Don. Pro and con arguments will be treated with the same consideration.

REGISTRATION

a. m. Students may register in the afternoon from 12:30 to 4:30 p. m. Faculty advisers will be in their offices during Freshmen Week to offer information in regard to programs, classes, and other sources of interest to students entering college for the first time.

Printed in the college print shop this summer, time tables will be issued before registration and will carry a complete list of courses, the time which they are offered during the day, and the units allowed. The name of the instructor also will appear opposite the courses, and a general outline of directions will be given thereon.

Invite New Women To Bridge Affair

All new women of the college are urged to be present at a bridge tea to be given in the "Y" hut this afternoon by cabinet members of the Women's Athletic Association. WILL CONSIDER BUDGET AT MEETING TOMORROW

College Dean Entertains Club Officers And Members of J. C. Executive Board

Consideration of the college budget is slated for tomorrow afternoon at 1 p. m. in the Associated Students' office, when new members of the executive Board will gather for the second time, their first meeting coming in the form of a social given last Wednesday evening by Dean McKee Fisk in the home of Linda Paul on North Main street.

Inviting club presidents to join in planning Freshman Days, the Executive Board met with these officers last Wednesday's meeting. With George Griffith, president of the Associated Students, presiding, the business program featured the handing out of Frosh Week assignments by L. L. Beeman, committee head, and a talk by Dean Fisk on "The College Student and Extra-Curricular Work."

Ticket Prices Set
Preceding the joint meeting, the executive Board conferred on the price of student tickets this year. College students will be charged 7.00. The price set for faculty tickets was $4.00.
The business program was followed by refreshments of Oriental variety, served in Oriental style by Mr. Fisk. Hilarity prevailed when the college dean explained the manner in which his food courses were to be eaten. Having made several trips to China, Fisk became acquainted with the customs of the Chinese, and, up-

Message From D. K. Hammond

It is a pleasure to extend a cordial welcome to all students as we enter upon the sixteenth year of college work. Never were our hopes higher or prospects brighter for a successful year. Last year our attendance increased thirty-five per cent, with a total of 784, and present indications are that both classes will be record-breaking. New courses are being offered to meet these increasing demands and every endeavor will be made to provide adequate educational opportunities for all. There is no depression here.

I believe there is no more patriotic duty a young person can perform than to acquire all the training he can. The man with a trained mind can change his vocation, if that be necessary, without great difficulty. That man is educated who can make adjustments of whatever kind speedily and easily. Let each and everyone of you do your work day by day and you will not need to worry about grades at the end of the semester.

Dean McKee Fisk's Message

Each year we enter upon the activities of a new college term with the high hope that it will set a record over previous years in academic achievement, extra-curriculum activities and personal growth. This year is no exception.

But whether the year 1931-1932 reaches the high goal for which we are striving depends upon the cooperation between faculty and students, all organizations, and students themselves. The responsibility rests with freshmen as well as sophomores. Each new student should become thoroughly acquainted with the customs and traditions of the College, should participate in some extra-curriculum activities, should make friends with faculty members as well as students, and should recognize the relative worth of the many opportunities to invest or waste one's time. In short, the degree of success which will be attained this year will depend very largely on how quickly and thoroughly new students begin to take an active part in the affairs of the college

The College exists for the students who attend it and for the community in which it is located. Each student is a part of the college. As such he has an obligation to other students and to the community. The College office is eager to make it easier for students to become at home and progress toward the realization of the College and their individual ideals. We greet you and wish you well!

Miss Hamman will teach a course in Applied Art, which if offered to students who are anxious to go a little deeper in that subject than has been allowed in college before. Lella B. Watson will have one class in Advertising.

NEW WOMEN'S SERVICE CLUB MAKES BOW HERE

Velma Bishop Will Head Las Gitanas During First Semester of 1931-32 Term

With every indication of taking a leading part in college activities, the newly formed Las Gitanas women's service club has outlined a full calendar of coming events and is helping the other organizations on the campus promote Freshman Week.

Several meetings have been held during the summer by the 10 charter members of the new club, which was given a Spanish name in keeping with the Spanish traditions of the Santa Ana junior college. Velma Bishop, who is the first president of the group, has been working with her cabinet and members since June to have the club affairs in shape for the opening of school.

Complete plans for a unique rush party for prospective members were made at a recent meeting held at the home of Janice Black at 1002 North Flower street. The affair will be given soon after registration, after which it is tentatively planned to elect and pledge 10 girls to membership. An additional number will be elected for new clubs.

Will Receive Charter

The club was recognized by the Executive Board last year at the close of school and will receive a permanent charter by remaining active after the first quarter of the coming semester. This is the regular procedure for new clubs.

Of course, the book business is our business and we should know what we are doing. But to that is added a special interest we have in the Junior College idea. We have believed in it ever since it was started in Santa Ana.

Our service has developed shoulder to shoulder with the growth of the Junior College.

Students and professors may consult a complete collection of catalogs at our store; a collection that has cost considerable money to get together. This is part of our Junior College equipment and you are welcome to it.

Our text books are sold to you at eastern publisher's prices. They cost the students exactly the same money they would pay to the publishers direct.

We have always taken great pains to give the Dons the sort of personal service they appreciate, and to always have the school materials on hand for them when they wanted them!

And we're ready now!

VETERANS ON LIST FOR '31 GRID SEASON

Conference's Best Tackles
Answer Call For Final
Year In Don Undie

Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana junior college football campaign was under way today, following the 1931 season's first turnout last night. Many veterans, together with several Orange county high school graduates, answered the call.

Captained by Mike Santa Cruz, all-conference tackle, the team will have a number of experienced players returning, among whom will be Harry Clayton, one of the best tackles in the league. In the line Coach Cook will find experienced men. The end positions will be sought after by Toby Groenow and Solon

Bill Cook, both of whom saw action plentifully last year. Competition will be offered by Melvin Maxwell, Martin Bowman, Jack McFadden, and several other promising wing candidates, whose names will be not listed until late this afternoon.

The guard positions will find a number of good men. Heading the array of talent are two returning lettermen from last season, Kermit McCoy and Wayne Bartholomew. Both saw plenty of action in 1930. McCoy received injuries during the latter part of the season, however, and was absent from practice for several weeks. Bartholomew is a big fellow, weighing over 185 pounds, and may be shifted to center this year. Wayne Crumrine, Joe Koons, Garth Olsen,

College Custodians Overhaul Gym During Vacation

During the summer Andrews gymnasium has undergone a complete revampment. Paint and brush have not been spared by the college custodians, and everything is in readiness for the opening of classes September 17. All lockers and dressing-room floors have been painted gray, and the two basketball courts have been waxed and repainted.

Tom Beasley, and John Jamison are other linemen who will make a bid for regular berths. Paul Jungheit, Anaheim star, will report.

Paul Bruce of Anaheim, who played here during the 1930 season, is a likely candidate for the center position. Bruce was out for this post last year, but because of the competition from Captain Al Kluthe, an all-conference center for two seasons, he was unable to make the grade. Bruce is an exceptional player and should go well for Cook. Horace Ritner, varsity center for Tustin, will be Bruce's main competitor for the ball-feeding duties. Ritner has played steady ball for Tustin during his four years of prep competition. If he does not vie for a guard position, Gil Kluthe, may turn his attention to the center position also. There is a possibility that Kermit McCoy may be shifted to center position in which he shone at Orange high school.

Backfield Prospects Bright

Prospects for the Don backfield are exceedingly bright. Emmett Seacord, Miles Privett, Doyle Gilbert, Howard Hales, Burt Winslow, and Laurence Ridnour will be among those competing for the quarterback duties. Seacord

DELVINGS OF THE DON'S

By Bob Durbin

VACATION EMPLOYMENT

Although many of them were enlisted in the army of the unemployed, some of the most fortunate of Santa Ana's football men exercised their muscles plentifully this summer. Captain Mike Santa Cruz worked in an Orange House (not his girl's), but a packing plant. He trucked and loaded cars, and this, from a laborer's viewpoint, is a he-man's job. Harry Clayton worked for the Excelsior Creamery and is now a husky milked boy, ready to assume his duties at tackle. Wayne Bartholomew, guard, kept in training with a fumigation job, while Kermit "Brick" McCoy, another good guard, was employed in his father's tin-shop. Paul Bruce worked for the City of Anaheim. Several other players were employed.

LET US PRAY
Last year we were football's defending champions, and prospects indicated that we were going to be a good defender. As the season progressed, other colleges told us that we were good, and sad but true, we soon began to think so ourselves. This was our team's downfall. Then, later on in the season, an "I don't care" attitude was taken. The Dons this year are just another contender, and will take things in the order they come. If Glendale is the next game, the slogan will be "GET GLENDALE." Dreams of a conference championship, it is hoped, will fade away until the proper time.

Allen Announces Two Fall Sports

With basketball and tennis arranged as the two fall sports on the women's program, Lorna Allen, commissioner of women's athletics of the college, today was anticipating an eventful sports year.

Tennis, a sport which receives attention the year around, will be in charge of Zena Leck, Mrs. Ellen Foote will coach the basketball teams.

Captain Santa Cruz Urges Grid Turnout

This year we will need plenty of men to fill the places left by graduation. We have a good coach who will give the newcomer the same chance as the returning letterman. Although our team will not be the best in the world, we should have a squad that will be a credit to the Don institution. Regardless of your size or shape, if you like to play football, come out for the next practice, get a suit and start to work! Captain Mike Santa Cruz

DON COACHES PREPARE FOR COMING YEAR

Mrs. Ellen Foote Returns
After Year of Absence
To Former Position

With Mrs. Ellen Foote returning as head of the women's physical education department after an absence of one year and Coach G. A. "Tex" Oliver entering his second year as head of the junior college physical education department, complete lists of instructors and coaches have been released.

Mrs. Foote, wife of W. W. Foote, Don basketball and golf coach, has been on a leave of absence of one year. Evelyn Yount, who was secured to teach last year for Mrs. Foote, will not be on the faculty this year. Except for this transfer, there will be no changes in either the men's or women's physical education department, Coach Oliver announced. Oliver will not handle any after school junior college sports, but will supervise the work of the department. "Bill" Foote will have the Padre basketball and golf teams again this year while Lester Archer will

Condition Of Turf Better Than In Former Years

Coach Bill Cook today was casting a satisfied eye over Poly field. The condition of the turf this season is better than it has been for many years.

With new seed having been sown shortly after the vacation period began, a heavy mat of bright green grass now covers the college turf from border to border and should keep football injuries down to a minimum.

In charge of "H. E. "Dad" Secrest, the reconditioning ceremonies also were extended to the East field, where practice scrimmages will be held by teams of both the high school and junior college. The Poly turf will be used for conference games only, it is said.

handle the tennis team. Clyde Cook will again take over the base ball coaching, if a team is sponsored during the second semester. Bill Cook will tutor the Don football team and the swimming squad.

Besides Mrs. Foote on the women's coaching staff, Alverda West and Zena Leck will again be back. Miss West is also head of the high school physical education department and will give up most of her after school coaching duties. She probably will continue to coach hockey. Miss Leck will resume her usual tasks as coach and gym instructor.

BRUFF HEADS J. C. SCIENCE

Many Courses Offered For
1931-32 Semesters

List Units Necessary For Certificate Grads

Headed by J. Russell Bruff, former Executive Board adviser, the college science department this year announces a complete list of subjects for both freshmen and sophomores.

The department of chemistry will be in charge of Etta May Conkle; astronomy, Mrs. Jennie Lasby Tessmann; physics, Herbert O. Russell; geology, Horace A. Scott. Mr. Bruff will teach botany and zoology.

All candidates for the Junior Certificate in Letters and Science and in the Teachers' College are required to complete twelve units of work in science; nine units of science are required in Commerce, with high school chemistry and physics meeting requirements for both certificates in part. Six units of the required work must be in laboratory courses, according to Bruff.

Designed to give a brief and comprehensive view of the fundamental principles of biology, a course, Survey of Biology, will be offered by Bruff. Students electing this course also must elect Physics 10 or Chemistry 10. Students with credit for Botany 2A or Zoology 1A are not eligible to enroll in this class, according to the science head.

General courses in astronomy, botany, chemistry, geology, physics, physiology, and zoology will be scheduled again this year. With high school chemistry as a prerequisite, a course in human physiology, which will take up the structure and function of living cells and tissues, and the various mechanisms of the body, will be given. Two hours of lecture and one three-hour laboratory period will make up each week's assignment.

Meninas Members Attend Party At Tustin Thursday

Enjoying an evening of bridge, members of Las Meninas, women's service club, were entertained last Thursday evening in the home of Lorna Allen, Tustin. The affair marked the final social one of the summer, and was the third of a series, the first coming as a beach party and weiner bake at Laguna Beach in June, and the second, a dance given in the casino of the Norconian club in late July.

Five card tables were set about the spacious rooms, and when tallies were checked, clever prizes were awarded Rosalind Schilling, high; and Eugenia Gire, consolation. Following the serving of a delectable refreshment course, dancing was enjoyed. Concluding the evening was a brief business session, at which time plans for Freshmen Week were discussed. Rush parties and pledging, which will take place shortly after the opening of college classes, also were planned. Club members will wear badges bearing their colors, green and gold, during Freshmen Week, it was decided.

Present, including the adviser, Genevieve Humiston, and the president, Clare Hymers, were members Jean Anderson, Juliette Taylor, Ruth Gardner, Rosalind Schilling, Ruth Collins, Hazel Hushman, Catherine Harwood, Eugenia Gire, Agnes McKinstry, Esther Romoff; Neva McDonald, Mary Ford, Marion Taylor, Katherine Spicer, Catherine Walbridge, Miriam Samuelson, and the hostess, Lorna Allen, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. L. E. Allen, and sister, Llewellyn Allen.

the hours of 2 and 4 the Women's Athletic Association will give a bridge tea for women not taking the aptitude test. The college plunge also will be available for the women's use.

Addresses by H. O. Russell, instructor in physics, and E. M. Nealley, instructor of philosophy, will feature Thursday morning's assembly, to begin at 10 a. m. with Mr. Hammond presiding. Music will be furnished by Peggy Warburton, William Fox, Imogene McCauley, and Alan Revill, the latter a member of the college faculty. Dean Fisk will explain the rules of the college.

MAN AND WIFE HONOR STUDENTS PLAN SOC. SCIENCE COURSE AT J. C.

High School Graduate Of 1930, R. H. McArthur To Begin
First Year While Wife Enrolls For Second

Achieving the highest of honors during her first year at Santa Ana junior college, Mrs. R. H. McArthur returns to this institution next week to register for the 1931-32 term, and accompanying her to continue her studies will be her husband, who was graduated this year with a brilliant record from the Santa Ana high school, an institution which he attended in 1902 as a freshman.

Brilliant Athlete
Mr. McArthur went in for athletics in a big way in 1902. Besides being the school's best sprinter, he played right end on the football team. Illness and work made it impossible for him to continue his studies, and with the exception of a three-month term in 1907, he did not go back to school until last September. Following his marriage in 1908, McArthur moved on a nine-acre orange ranch near Santa Ana. It was through the returns of the past several years that he was enabled to go back to the classrooms.

Excellent Grades
Several weeks passed before he could get adjusted to the unusual routine of school, but at the end of the first semester his name was listed among the honor students. This was accomplished by his making a grade of 1 in United States history, 2 in physics, 1 in civics, 1 in economics, and 1 in senior English. His record the following and last semester was even better, Mr. McArthur receiving a 1 in United States history, 1 in economics, 1 in English composition, 2 in physics, and 1 in history and economics.

Social Science
Mr. and Mrs. McArthur are looking forward to the 1931-32 term, during which time they plan to major in social science.

Graduating from high school in 1902, Mr. McArthur's wife took extension work, passed the county teaching examinations and taught in schools at Talbert, Irvine, Newport Beach, and El Modena until 1908, when she met and married Mr. McArthur. With a fourteen-unit program, Mrs. McArthur made the honor society at Santa Ana college the past semester. She earned an A in American literature, A in public speaking, A in history of Pacific coast, B in freshman English, and A in mathematics of finance.

size up Santa Ana junior college's prospects along the line of sports for the coming season.
One of the highlights of the social the assembly. Under the direction of Marjorie Arundell, social chairman, a dance will be staged in Andrews gymnasium. A good orchestra is promised and many friendships should be made, according to Miss Arundell. Sponsored by the Brotherhood of Bachelors, recreation in the form of swimming and baseball will be on the program for those students not wishing to dance. Tommy Cone, Bachelor Grand Exalted, will be in charge.

Names of student officials responsible for the management of Freshmen Days are as follows: (Each chairman selected other students from his organization to assist him).

M.; Entertainment committee—Clare Hymers of the Las Meninas; Greeting committee—Paul Wright of the Press club; Lunch committee—Hazel Hushman of the A. W. Plan Distribution Of Freshmen Pins On Friday

Facilitating the old students in their endeavor to point out all newcomers to the Don institution, the sophomore class, under the leadership of Charles Stehly, has decided to continue the custom started by President Abbott Mason last year and will issue green pins, with the word "Freshie" thereon, to all new first-year students.

Distribution of pins is scheduled for Friday afternoon during the assembly which will be conducted solely by the Associated Students. At this time Jac Crawford, president of the Y. M. C. A., will issue copies of the Frosh Bible and will explain that both the bible and the pin must be carried by the freshmen at all times.

In order to enforce the ruling which Mr. Crawford will explain, the sophomore class during Freshmen Week will designate a group of old Dons to squelch all who refuse to wear the pin.

Ray Glesner May Return To Study At S. A. College

Former president of the Junior Lions, Ray Glesner, who underwent a serious operation which caused him to withdraw from Santa Ana junior college several months before the 1930-31 year terminated, has recovered sufficiently and plans to return to this institution next week.

Glesner was extremely active in student affairs during his freshman year. Besides holding the highest office in the Junior Lions club, he was a prominent member of Beta Gamma, and served as assistant football manager last year. Glesner was responsible in a big way for the success of last year's giant football rally, sponsored by the Junior Lions. He, together with club members, filled an old five-room house with an abundance of boxes and other material and brought out a crowd of more than 1,000 people to enjoy the huge bonfire, prepared to create enthusiasm for the Santa Ana-Fullerton game.

Mr. Clayton: "I've got a freak on my farm—a tow-legged calf."

Mr. Lloyd: "I know. He came over to call on my daughter last night."

LIFT BAN ON JAYCEE RULE

Los Angeles Board Changes
Week-Ago Decision

Tuition Contracts For 274
Students Prepared

Reversing its recent ruling to prohibit all high school graduates within the city limits of Los Angeles from enrolling at any other junior college but Los Angeles, the Board of Education in the big city has lifted its ban made a week ago.

Contracts for tuition for 274 students who live in Los Angeles district but who will attend Compton junior college this year have been prepared by Ray Sheldon of the Los Angeles board.

Had the new ruling gone into effect, students of San Pedro, Wilmington, and other harbor district communities would have been forced to travel many miles farther each day to the Cub institution in Los Angeles. The athletic security of Compton has been assured. It was chiefly through the attendance of several star athletes from Los Angeles, San Pedro, and other communities last year that the Tartars won the conference football a single defeat in either sport. Santa Ana junior college was the only team in the Southern conference not to be defeated by Compton's strong grid representatives, and this game ended in a 0-to-0 tie.

PRESS CLUB

year. Regular attendance at the bi-monthly meetings is stressed by club officials, however, and a member who misses two consecutive meetings without cause will be dropped from the roll, Hendrickson pointed out.

Visits to the newspaper plants of the Los Angeles Times and Long Beach Sun were enjoyed by members of the society during the 1930-31 term. Other events held during the two semesters included a treasure hunt, two house parties, an ice-skating party at the Palais de Glais, Los Angeles, a barn frolic at Tustin, and a beach party at Corona del Mar. Good attendance featured all entertainments, between 40 and 50 students enjoying the affairs.

Hendrickson, striving to make this semester a banner one in the history of the club, will be aided by Clayton Kaps, vice-president and social commissioner; and Ed Folger, secretary-treasurer. Retiring officers of the organization are Paul Wright, president; Gladys Lloyd, vice-president and social commissioner; and Grace Lloyd, secretary-treasurer.
